Unraveled Rhythms

Choreographer: Eryn Renee Young / Artist: Amanda Browder

Music: Claude Debussy, Rafael Krux, Kevin McLeod

Dancers: Margot Hartley, Katherine Potz, Danielle Rutherford / XAOC Contemporary Ballet

The delicate and intricate patterns of doilies serve as a powerful symbol of the undervalued and underpaid work that is typically done by women in society. This fabric installation not only incorporates the small scale of doilies but also showcases the massive scale of a fabric backdrop that was created by hundreds of volunteers who were interested in learning to sew or using their skills to tackle large-scale projects such as covering a building. Textile creations can be achieved at any scale, equally empowering those who contribute to the process and reflecting their strength and creativity.
